New Jersey Kills Bond Issue

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—New Jersey's voters rejected Gov. Richard J. Hughes' $750 million bond issue plan Tuesday.

With 2,645 of 4,533 districts reported the first bond issue question on the ballot trailed 464,991 "Yes" votes to 526,122 "No" votes.

The second question trailed even farther behind with 428,740 "Yes" votes to 520,385 "No" votes.

The bond issue, one of the most hotly contested referendum proposals in state history, was broken into two questions. The first proposed $275 million in new institutions and colleges. The second proposed $475 million for highways.

New York Favors Off-Track Betting

NEW YORK (AP)—A proposal to legalize off-track betting on horse races breezed to a smashing victory Tuesday night in a New York City advisory referendum.

Returns from 3,380 of 4,852 election districts gave: Yes 651,723; No, 196,992.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, a Democrat, and other proponents have estimated that off-track betting would raise $200 million a year, to be divided between city and state, to help meet education and other costs.

Albert Johnson Running Ahead

WARREN, Pa. (AP)—Republican Albert W. Johnson, Smetport, appeared assured Tuesday night of winning the 23rd District congressional seat in a special election.

With 111 precincts reported of 456 in the eight-county district, Johnson had a lead of 17,589 votes to 11,804 for his Democratic opponent William T. Haggerty, Clearfield.

A Johnson victory would restore the balance of Pennsylvania's congressional delegation to 14-13 in favor of the GOP and keep the U.S. House Republican delegation at 178 against 257 Democrats.

Negro Wins In Lexington

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Heavy late returns for Republican nominee Louie B. Nunn Tuesday night cut the lead of Democrat Edward T. Breathitt Jr. to about 17,000 votes and threw the outcome of the Kentucky governor's race in doubt.

The bulk of the precincts not yet reporting went Republican in the 1959 governor's contest.

Nunn withdrew an earlier concession and charged widespread irregularities.

In a statement he said: "We have reports of widespread irregularities in certain counties. We're asking our people to stand by the voting machines and the ballot boxes. The race is not over yet."

With 2,787 of 2,982 precincts reported, Breathitt had 433,151 and Nunn 415,879.

Nunn, who emphasized his opposition to the Kennedys and a state civil rights order, conceded less than three hours after the polls closed. Breathitt hailed "a great victory for the Democrats" but issued no statement.

In Mississippi's first real Democratic-Republican race for governor, the Democrat, Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, rode to victory quickly, though Republican Ruell Phillips showed considerable strength.

With 910 of 1,877 precincts reporting, the result was: Johnson 76,476, Phillips 42,886.

Johnson and Phillips had vied with each other as to which

Monroe Defeats Constitution, Project 70

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County voters yesterday turned down a proposed constitution convention and Project 70, while supporting loans to students for higher education and establishment of an emergency seat for the state government in event of an enemy attack.

The proposal for a constitutional amendment almost made it, losing by only 193 votes — 4,429 to 4,236, but the Project 70 proposal was soundly defeated.

Project To Gains

The amendment to authorize "Project 70," a conservation program, also showed a growing favorable margin after trailing in early returns. With 2,348 precincts reported the question had 259,574 votes for it to 221,355 against.

ed by 1,764 votes — 5,032 to 3,268.

The student loan proposal was approved by 1,330 votes, 4,806 to 3,476 and the emergency government by 482 votes, 4,151 to 3,669.

Reflecting the early trend from across the state, the county's voters turned down a proposal to elect delegates to a convention to rewrite Pennsylvania's 1874 constitution.

It was the sixth time since it was adopted that such a proposal had been placed on the ballot. It was defeated each of the other five times.

Project 70, authorizing a bond issue of $70,000,000 for acquisition of land for state parks, reservoirs "and other conservation, recreation, historical preservation purposes" in the wording of the amendment and to permit the state to participate with local political subdivisions in acquiring lands for such purposes, never had a chance. It had been attacked by numerous individuals and groups here who said the state already had too much undeveloped land.

The convention question was one of four constitutional measures on the ballot. The other three would amend the present constitution.

Westbrook Leads Battory By 4 Votes

STROUDSBURG — Republicans gained control of the Monroe County Commissioners office, elected a sheriff and trailed by only four votes in the race for register of wills and recorder of deeds on the basis of unofficial returns from yesterday's general election.

Harold B. Kresge, recognized by the administration of Gov. William W. Scranton, last night claimed victory for Mrs. Jeanette F. Battory, incumbent Republican register and recorder.

Kresge based his claim on the 216 absentee ballots, 198 civilian and 18 military, which will be counted on Nov. 15. He said of the total, 176 were sent to Republicans.

Democrats retained control of the office of prothonotary and clerk of courts and re-elected James R. Marsh as district attorney. Marsh, who was unopposed, was listed on both tickets. He received 6,724 Democratic votes and 6,343 Republican votes.

Stanley B. Rader of Effort, the minority member of the board of commissioners in the term now ending, was re-elected, receiving 6,103 votes, while John B. Price, former Stroudsburg businessman, became the other Republican commissioner with 7,806 votes, the highest total polled by any commissioner candidate.

Stanley B. Rader of Tannersville, active in labor circles, won the Democratic minority seat, defeating John R. Lessone, now chairman of the board, by 6,938 to 5,693 votes. Lessone, surprisingly, ran last in the four-man race for three posts. Lessone is the uncle of Pipher's wife.

Edward F. Metzgar of Tannersville, longtime justice of the peace in Pocono Township and chief of the township's volunteer fire department since its founding, polled 7,155 votes for a margin of almost 700 over his Democratic opponent, James V. Cadie, former county auditor.

J. Nelson Westbrook, Stroudsburg undertaker and former county treasurer, polled 6,833 Democratic votes to 6,829 for Mrs. Battory on the basis of final, unofficial figures. The battle will not be decided until absentee ballots and official count are completed Nov. 15.

Frank J. Smith, former county highway superintendent, ran up an almost 1,300-vote edge over his Republican opponent for prothonotary and clerk of courts, Mrs. Ruth B. Slutter of Henryville.

Smith received 7,234 votes to 5,942 for Mrs. Slutter, who was seeking her first political office.

Democrats retained control of the county auditors, electing Thomas R. Joyce with 6,818 votes and Joseph J. Vogt with 6,530. The Republican member of the board will be Mrs. Mary Emma Teeter Garcia, who polled 6,365 votes. The other Republican, V. R. Fitzgerald, had 5,653 votes.

Kresge in a victory state-maintained issued after the polls closed, said:

"We are very proud that the citizens of Monroe County have entrusted to us the task of governing it for the next four years."

"It is a responsibility we gladly accept. We are grateful for those who supported our candidate for sheriff and to those who contributed to the victory of our register and recorder, Mrs. Jeanette Battory."

"We are grateful for those who voted for our candidates who were unsuccessful and we promise to produce every pledge we made in The Daily Record."

W. C. G. Peterson, county Democratic chairman, said last night:

"The election was a bit of a surprise. We thought we'd win it; we didn't. We congratulate all those who did win and I know they'll serve the best interest of Monroe County. I'm proud of the candidates the Democratic Party had on its team. I hope Monroe County will go forward with these office holders."

Lim, Viglione And Roberts Tops For SU School Director

STROUDSBURG — Veteran school board member Dr. John Lim led the slate for school directors at large to serve in Stroud Union School District for a six year term. The two other posts will be filled by Lorraine Viglione and Raymond Roberts, both running for their first public office.

A fourth director has been added to the Stroud Union board, Raymond Price, 37, Republican, a graduate of Pratt Institute and former president of the Arlington Heights Parent Teachers Assn. He ran on a platform of closer communication between parents and the school board. He had 2,236 votes.

Lim, 57, a Republican, has already served ten years as school director and 12 years as athletic team physician. He ran on a platform of "adequate education to meet present and future needs of the community without consideration of the taxpayers' ability to pay." His vote of 3,119 from the 12 voting districts in Stroud Union topped the six candidates running for the three open posts.

All of the successful candidates campaigned actively for the post, speaking at PTA groups and personal solicitations.

Second was Lorraine Viglione, defeated candidates were 6:34 a.m.; sets 4:53 p.m.

Willard Kintz, Jr., D. with 2,144 votes; Ralph Paul, D. with 2,076 votes, and Fred Titus, R. with 1,995.

A fourth director has been added to the Stroud Union board, Raymond Price, Jr., of Hamilton Twp. According to the union school board regulations, one school director must be elected from Hamilton Twp. Price, a former Republican State Committeeman, defeated George E. Metzgar, Democrat, 414 to 361.

The third place was won by Raymond Roberts, 37, Republican, a graduate of Pratt Institute and former president of the Arlington Heights Parent Teachers Assn. He ran on a platform of closer communication between parents and the school board. He had 2,236 votes.

State News Roundup

Ike Misses His Vote

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Pennsylvania's most prominent citizen, did not get to vote in Tuesday's general election.

His Gettysburg office said Eisenhower was unable to obtain an absentee ballot prior to his departure Monday for Augusta, Ga., for his annual golfing visit.

The former chief executive originally had planned to vote Tuesday in Gettysburg, a spokesman said, but "a trip came up at the last minute."

The Adams County board of election, when contacted, informed Eisenhower that it was too late for him to apply for an absentee ballot.

Pennsylvania law requires that all absentee ballot applications be submitted by mail or in person at least one week prior to the election.

Clark, Scott In Baker Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Pennsylvania senators, Democrat Joseph S. Clark and Republican Hugh Scott, who are members of the Senate rules committee, will play a major role in the investigation of Robert G. Baker, the resigned secretary to the Senate majority whose outside business interests have been under fire for more than a month.

Pennsylvania is the only state that has two members on the Rules committee, which is conducting the inquiry.

Clark declined in an interview to say which direction he thinks the investigation should take, or whether any new legislation might develop from it.

He said he believes that committee procedures must be worked out before, in his words, he "spills off."

He is a co-sponsor, however, of a bill introduced by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., to require members of Congress, top congressional employees, and members of the executive branch to make public their sources of income.

Carpenter On Planning Board

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — The director of instructional services at the Pennsylvania State University has been named as executive director of the planning committee for the institution's new Milton S. Hershey Medical Center.

University President Eric A. Walker said Tuesday that Dr. C. R. Carpenter will be reassigned immediately from his present duties to devote his full time to the center planning committee.

Plans for the new medical school to be located near Harrisburg were unveiled last August.

The school will be established with $50 million in accumulated income from a 54-year-old trust set up by the late chocolate magnate, Milton S. Hershey.

U.S. Turns Over Brother Of Diem

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. officials turned over to the military government Tuesday another brother of the Ngo Dinh family — Ngo Dinh Can, ruler of central Viet Nam. He had sought refuge in the U.S. consulate at Hue.

Can was brought to Saigon on a 400-mile flight in a U.S. military plane from Hue, where Buddhist opponents of the ousted Ngo Dinh Diem regime charged that he ruled as a bloody tyrant. It was not learned if Can was aware he was being brought here by the U.S. officials.

In Saigon some foreigners expressed belief the military government would put Can on trial and perhaps sentence him to death or a long prison term. U.S. officials were understood to have received assurances from revolutionary authorities that Can would not be lynched and would receive due process of law.

Diem and his brother Nhu died after they were captured by rebel forces Saturday. The government said both men committed suicide, but an informed source reported they were slain by army men after they had surrendered to rebel troops in a Roman Catholic church.

Unconfirmed reports circulated at Hue, capital of central Viet Nam, that 180 bodies had been found in a mass grave at Can's mansion there. Responsible officials said rows of filthy dungeons were found in an old French arsenal on property owned by Can just south of Hue.

Can dropped from sight when the coup overthrew Diem's regime and he went Monday night to the U.S. consulate in Hue.

UNCLE GREETED NUH CHILDREN — Roman Catholic Archbishop Ngo Dinh Thuc, right, brother-in-law of Mme. Ngo Dinh Nhu, welcomes her younger children on their arrival in Rome from South Viet Nam. Le Quyen, 4, is held by her brother, Trac, 15. A third child, Quyen, 11, also came with them. The prelate is a brother of the children's father, Ngo Dinh Nhu, and President Ngo Dinh Diem, both of whom died in the South Viet Nam revolt.

Pentagon Streamlines Its Emergency Forces Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon streamlined control of its brush fire emergency forces Tuesday by assigning to the Army-Air Force Strike Command all defense responsibility for the Middle East, Southern Asia and much of Africa.

The main effect will be to strip from the Navy an important command jurisdiction it has long held in that vast area. However, the Navy will retain its command of U.S. defenses in the Mediterranean, where the powerful 6th Fleet is kept on patrol.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced the shift with President Kennedy's approval.

He defined the purpose in these words, "The change in command arrangements consolidates under a single commander responsibilities formerly fragmented among several commanders."

Gen. Paul D. Adams, Command chief, will take over some jobs now performed by Army headquarters here, Continental Army Command headquarters at Ft. Monroe, Va., and in Paris and London.

His area of command was defined as the Middle East, South East Asia, including India and Pakistan, and Africa south of the Sahara. Under Adams will be military assistance advisory groups and training missions totaling about 1,000 men.

The Strike Command, which operates from MacDill Air Force Base in Florida, was created by McNamara two years ago. Its mission is planning and organizing forces and military doctrine for dealing with emergencies around the world. The command recently handled the airlift of an armored division from Texas to Germany in 63 hours.

The command previously has had no area responsibility. It has been chiefly an Army-Air Force operation with eight Army divisions, 50 tactical air squadrons and various other units of both services on call when needed — a force of about 200,000 fighting men.

For the first time, a Navy fleet element will be brought under control of the Strike Command. A Defense Department spokesman told newsmen this fleet will consist of a small Naval task force which shows the U.S. flag in the Red Sea.

Normally, this Red Sea force includes from two to four destroyers, a seaplane tender and a C-45 propeller-driven transport airplane. But other fleet units could be assigned quickly to the force if needed.

The command previously has had no area responsibility. It has been chiefly an Army-Air Force operation with eight Army divisions, 50 tactical air squadrons and various other units of both services on call when needed — a force of about 200,000 fighting men.

For the first time, a Navy fleet element will be brought under control of the Strike Command. A Defense Department spokesman told newsmen this fleet will consist of a small Naval task force which shows the U.S. flag in the Red Sea.

Normally, this Red Sea force includes from two to four destroyers, a seaplane tender and a C-45 propeller-driven transport airplane. But other fleet units could be assigned quickly to the force if needed.

E-Burg Water Plant Plan In Washington

EAST STROUDSBURG
East Stroudsburg's application for construction of a water filtration plant under President Kennedy's accelerated public works program has been sent to the Washington office of the Community Facilities Administration. Borough Council was told last night.

Charles R. Bensinger, Jr., borough solicitor, said the project has been approved by the Philadelphia office of the Housing and Home Finance Administration.

Bensinger said the cooperation of U. S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark and Hugh Schu and U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney will be sought in expediting CFA approval of the project.

INCREASE PRESSURE

It was pointed out that the filtration plant would increase present water pressures and that some such increase will be necessary in view of the taller buildings being constructed at East Stroudsburg State College and Monroe County General Hospital.

In other action, Council:

Approved expenditure of $5,525 for water main construction south of E. Broad St. The cost includes 220 feet of 12-inch cast iron pipe at $1,980; one 12-inch valve and box at $200; one 12-inch by six-inch tee at $80; 700 feet of six-inch cast iron pipe at $2,800; two six-inch valves with boxes at $160, and one fire hydrant for blow off at $300.

Referred to the planning commission a petition from 27 persons objecting to the location of house trailers on the northeast side of State St.

Adopted a resolution formally accepting the sanitary sewer system, sewage treatment plant, pumping stations and force mains built by East Stroudsburg Borough Authority for the borough.

Accepted the recommendation

Flare Sets Off Devil's Hole Fire

PARADISE TOWNSHIP — A flare was cited as the cause of a woods fire in Devil's Hole which Mount Pocono Firemen fought at 12:45 a. m. yesterday for more than one hour before bringing it under control.

Ernest Bishling, fire chief, said investigation disclosed the remains of a flare of the 10 to 15 minute burning variety approximately 75 feet from the edge of the road. He said it could have been thrown into the woods from the road.

The fire claimed more than half an acre before 1,350 gallons of water poured in put the fire out.

Tax Cut Conservatives

Leading spokesmen for the Business Committee for Tax Reduction in 1963 appear to be less conservative on the question of federal spending than some of the conservative Republicans in Congress who think they are speaking for the business community.

The basic conservative position on federal spending is that it should be cut drastically and that no tax cut should be voted until federal spending is cut back.

But three leaders of the nation's business told the Senate Finance Committee Monday that a tax cut does not have to be accompanied by reduced federal spending.

They were Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co.; Stuart Saunders, chairman of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. and Frazer Wilde, chairman of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

They are leaders of a group of 2,767 of the nation's top business executives who formed the tax cut committee with encouragement from President Kennedy.

Both this group and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce refused to back House Republicans when they tried to make a tax cut depend on a legal federal budget ceiling.

Unhappy about this desertion of business from the conservative position, Rep. Byrnes of Wisconsin, who led the budget ceiling attempt, said recently:

"If the business community will not stand up and insist on a policy of fiscal responsibility, who will?"

Comment Of The Day

"The cigarette scare will get a big dose of publicity in next few weeks. A new smoking-cancer book by a U. S. Senator, Maurine Neuberger of Oregon will be out... the title, 'Smoke Screen.'

"And a large national magazine will feature a cover story on the subject. The Surgeon General's report is being

The answer the three spokesmen for the tax reduction committee gave is that many businessmen feel that a tax cut is vital to the nation's economic growth and can be adopted without slashing federal spending. They do however urge that the federal budget not be increased beyond the present level.

We support that position. And we would urge Congressmen to be more alert and aggressive in cutting out unnecessary and unproductive federal spending. A budget of about $100 billion cannot help having thousands of waste items, small and large.

The position of the business leaders may have dismayed Congressional conservatives because they do not fully realize how much federal spending now affects all business and every corner of the American economy.

It may not always be a healthy influence, but it is massive and real, and the biggest businessmen of all know that federal spending cannot be cut back drastically without drastic affects on their own sales, profits and economic health.

At the same time they feel that a $11.1 billion tax cut should be adopted quickly and should take effect Jan. 1. And they argue that it can be adopted without causing a serious budget deficit.

That is also the Kennedy administration position. If the leaders of the biggest corporations in America agree with Kennedy, it cannot be the completely irresponsible position the Congressional conservatives call it.

Lackadaisical Spain

By George Dixon

The Spanish don't seem to feel that it's typical of us to be furtively back of all coups, and that the typical American is former secretary to the Senate majority. Robert G. Baker. In fact they don't seem to give a whoop about Bobby Baker, even if he manipulated through government channels, a thing the Spanish understand.

Of course, their interest in Bobby might become heightened if the Senate investigation of his remarkable ascent to riches develops any semblance of Christine Keeler. Mandy Rice Davies sex appeal. The Spanish are incurable romantics, not being too caring about who is doing the romanticizing, or why.

But until it is shown that women played a substantial role in Bobby's operations, the Spanish probably will put young Master Baker down as an unromantic messenger boy who ran errands for the "right" people — which is what he was.

The Spanish are unique among the world's peoples in still another aspect. Not only are they not mad at us; they're not even mad at the British Museum.

All other people who possess historical ruins are sore at the British Museum. They charge it with having looted and hung onto strategic pieces needed to reconstruct ruins.

The Lebanese are incensed because the British won't return the jigsaw pieces from the ruins at Baalbek and Byblos; the Syrians over hunks looted from around Damascus — and King Hussein of Jordan asks how he can restore the walls of Jericho when so many missing pieces continue to be glommed onto by the British Museum.

King Hussein told me the British were considering returning some of the vital chunks. I thought I detected a sardonic note in his mild voice, and asked how long they had been considering it.

"As long as I can remember" replied his majesty ruefully. "And I suspect they'll still be giving it their very closest consideration years after I'm gone."

Now that I'm out of the indignation lands and relaxing in amiable Spain, I have been to the British Museum. They charge it with having looted and hung onto strategic pieces needed to reconstruct ruins.

The Spanish are unique among the world's peoples in still another aspect. Not only are they not mad at us; they're not even mad at the British Museum.

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — With yesterday's general election now one day deep in the pages of history, it's on to 1964 and a critical presidential election year with Pennsylvania destined to play a key role — in both the Democratic and Republican camps.

The local runoffs yesterday marked the end of the 1963 election "season" for the Keystone State.

At the same time it signalled the start of all-out strategy moves in preparation for the upcoming 1964 showdown which in addition to being a presidential election year, is also a congressional election year.

And — 1964 is a legislative election year which will determine whether Pennsylvania's lawmaking body is to become politically split or continue in Republican Scranton Administration hands.

Additionally, Pennsylvania will select someone to fill one of its two U. S. Senate seats, the one now held by Senator Hugh Scott.

On the national scene, Pennsylvania Republicans unquestionably will have a much more influential voice in overall party policy and strategy deliberations than they have enjoyed in many a convention month.

Much of this of course can be laid at the doorstep (or dancestep) of William Warren Scranton who, as somewhat of a Republican upstart last year, upset the fiddlers-three and moved into the governorship as the first GOPster to do so in eight long years of Democratic rule.

This accomplishment on the part of Mr. Scranton in the face of then almost unbelievable odds, sent his political star soaring on the national scene, particularly when his personal vote margin was noted.

The time has not been beclouded one whit by the spectre of Air Force Reserve Major Scranton actually becoming a presidential candidate or hopeful himself — providing of course a "pure and honest" draft in his behalf.

Unless Mr. Scranton loses face and his political shirt between now and next year (and this seems most unlikely with the pushing press agency set up he now enjoys) there is indeed every reason to believe Pennsylvania GOPsters will have a whale of a time for a refreshing once.

On the Democratic side, Pennsylvania is in almost — but not quite — an equally critical stance. Admittedly the Democrats have lost the governorship and a few dog-catcher posts down the line, but they are still a potent power in Keystone State politics, still a mighty important factor in the overall Pennsylvania picture.

The time has not been beclouded one whit by the spectre of Air Force Reserve Major Scranton actually becoming a presidential candidate or hopeful himself — providing of course a "pure and honest" draft in his behalf.

Democrats to win the presidential next year feel they will definitely will need the good graces of Pennsylvania. The state is no longer in the "lost-so-forget-it" column of a decade ago insofar as donkey riders are concerned, with the result that Pennsylvania Democrats continue to hold a high and respected place in the national picture.

Thus in actuality Pennsylvania finds itself in the somewhat curious position of being a listened-to and sought-after state on a somewhat grand scale by both parties — not just one or the other as in the past.

James N. Price, running on both tickets, collected a total of 544 votes with 298 from the Republicans and 246 from the Democrats for Pocono Mountain Jointure school director. Second post as school director went to Donald A. Robbins Jr., R., with 323 votes. Elmer C. Munch, D., was edged out with 321 votes.

Thomas D. Besecker, D., won the post of township auditor with 364 Democratic votes. He was unopposed.

Hunting Turnout Light

STROUDSBURG — Not as many hunters took to the woodlands yesterday for the first day of small game season as in other years, according to John Doebling, district game protector.

Doebling reported "everything went good" with but a few minor violations to mar the opening day. The violations are under investigation he said.

Hunting hours are 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily except Sunday. Doebling reported a good supply of game in the woods.

Gov. William Scranton lifted the statewide ban on hunting in time for yesterday's small game opening. A ban on building fires and smoking in the woods remains in effect, however.

Two Justices of the peace were elected, both Democrats: Lawrence E. Han with 626 votes and John J. Grande with 520, defeating Republicans, William

Polk

Clinton Bruch, Republican, defeated Lawrence G. Getz, Democrat, 207 to 197, for Polk Township supervisor yesterday.

Virginia M. Stiff, Democrat, and Kermit K. Kreimoyer, Republican, were elected Pleasant Valley Jointure school directors with Mrs. Stiff, listed on both tickets, polling 194 Democrat and 140 Republican votes. Kreimoyer had 183 votes to 175 for Ralph Snyder, the other Democrat.

Snow Removal Cost County $427,950

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — A job that cost $427,950 to perform last year is about to get under way once again in Monroe County. Employees of the Monroe office of the Department of Highways are preparing for the gigantic task of removing snow from the 600 miles of road it maintains in the county.

This year the county department will be faced with the task of removing snow from more than 30 miles of new divided, limited access highways it maintains in the county.

According to Morgan Butz, superintendent, the additional work is going to be carried out without any new personnel. He said, however: "We have contacted local owners of snow removal equipment and made arrangements to use their equipment on a rental basis in an emergency.

He said the department has also lined up stand-by crews to be used in the face of a heavy storm.

Yesterday a 24-hour radio watch was started at the highway office on Rt. 611A north of Stroudsburg. This will enable the department to get snow reports directly from district headquarters in Allentown and from highway offices in surrounding counties.

By Nov. 15 all the department's snow removal equipment will be stationed at strategic points around the county. Workers assigned to this equipment live near where it is stationed.

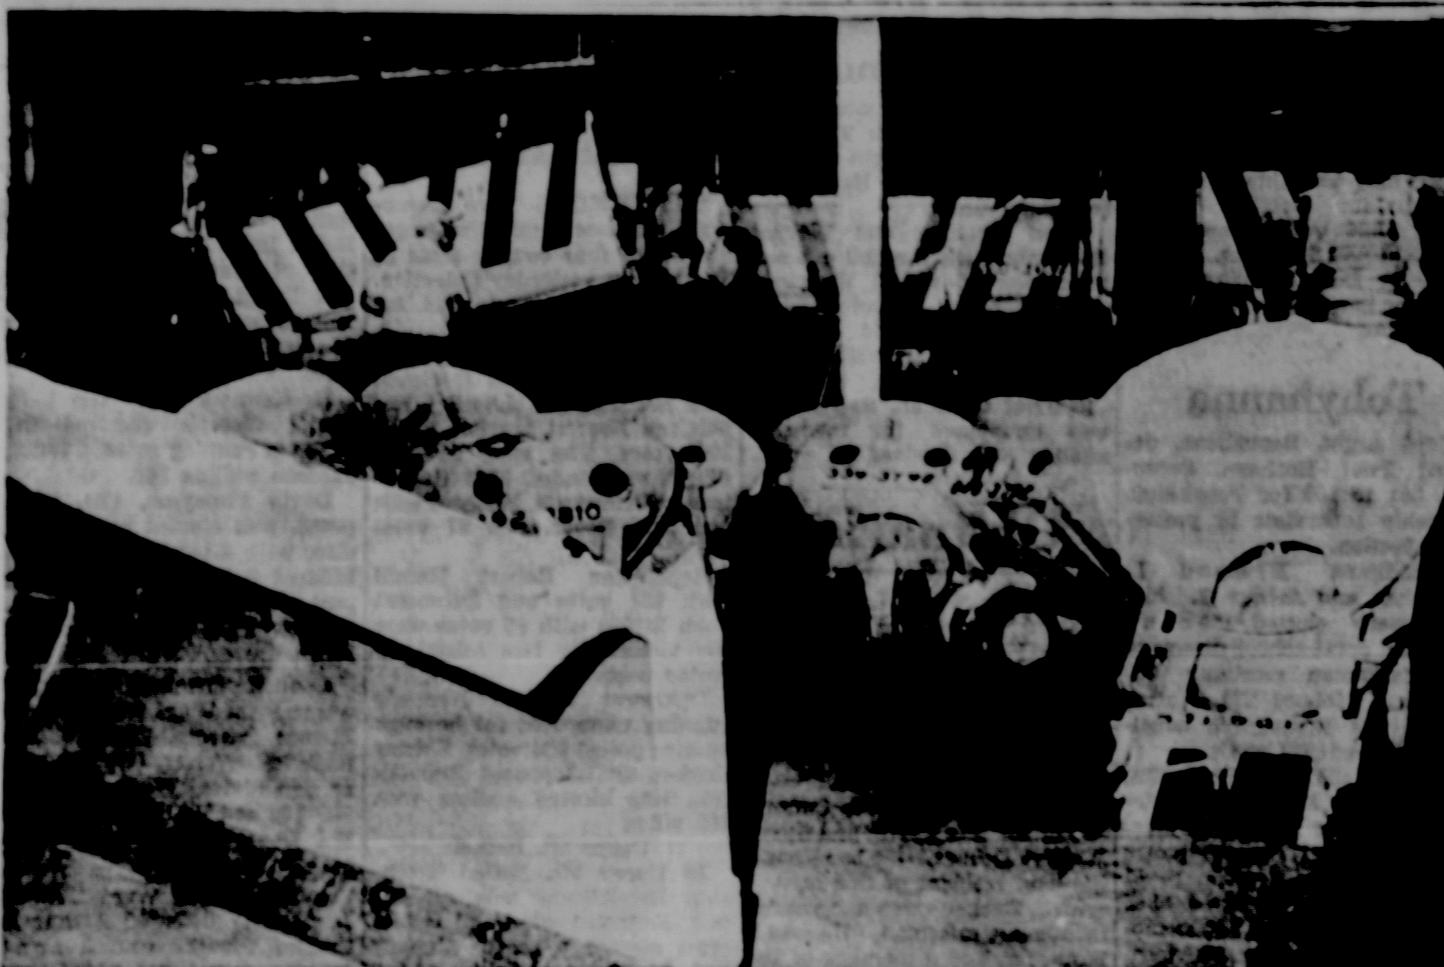

"This will enable crews to move into action on a half-hour's notice," said William Quinn, assistant superintendent.

Hopes For New Equipment

Harold Kresge, Monroe County resident and administrative officer for the district office in Allentown, said he hopes some new snow removal equipment is brought to Monroe County to help cope with the amount of snow from the additional highways.

"If we don't get it, however,

I am sure Butz and his foreman will be able to handle the job without any hitches," he said.

SNOW EQUIPMENT — Employees of the Stroudsburg office of the Department of Highways put the finishing touches on some of the equipment that will be pressed into service during the winter. Also shown are a snow plow (foreground) and several spreaders that will put anti-skid material on regional highways during the winter months. Watching John Kresge paint a tail gate are Henry Storm and William Quinn, assistant superintendent.

7 Area Men Enlist In Army

STROUDSBURG — M/Sgt. Donald K. Smith, local Army recruiter, announced yesterday that seven young men from the area enlisted in the regular Army at the Stroudsburg Recruiting Station.

Enlistees were: Michael Shepard, son of Mrs. Bernice Shepard of Mountainhome. He graduated from the Pocono Mountain Joint High School with the class of '63. He enlisted under the guaranteed schooling program for the Ground Surveillance Radar Repair School at Fort Monmouth, N.J.

Also joining was James Shotwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Shotwell of Pocono Lake. Shotwell graduated from the Pocono Mountain High School with the class of '62. He will be trained in the engineer equipment operation and maintenance career field.

Richard Ranich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ranich of Exeter, Pa., and a former resident of 57 Brown St., East Stroudsburg, also enlisted prior to a guarantee to attend a pharmacy specialist school at Brooke Army Medical Center at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Anthony Gabrys, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gabrys of Columbia, N.J., chose to serve in the field of air defense missile operation.

Earl Palmer Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Palmer of RD 2, East Stroudsburg, a graduate of the East Stroudsburg High School, class of '63, will be trained in the cooking and baking career field.

Steven Vangorden, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Thissen Vangorden, RD 1 Henryville, will serve in the telephone outside plant maintenance career field.

Earl Ney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ney of Canadensis, enlisted for guaranteed schooling in aircraft maintenance at Fort Rucker, Alabama. He is also a graduate of the Pocono Mountain Joint High School, class of '63.

Sgt. Smith said that any young men or women that are planning an enlistment after Christmas should contact him now so that the school or the field in which they wish to serve can be reserved. His office is at the Stroudsburg post office.

Fifty million participate in amateur art activities—32 million of them play musical instruments, 15 million paint, sketch or sculpt, a million are serious photographers and half-million are amateur actors.

Barrett Pool
Poll Meets
Apathy, Foes

BARRETT—The proposal for a Barrett Community swimming pool met apathy and opposition yesterday at the public opinion poll held in the Barrett Elementary Center, outside the regular polling place.

Members of the Barrett Junior Women's Club staffed the public opinion poll and were bypassed by 411 of the 1,061 people who voted in the regular election.

In answer to the question, "Are you in favor of a township owned community swimming pool supported by a two mill recreation tax?" 208 voters said yes and 333 said no. A total of 420 voters bypassed the question.

The second question, asking whether voters would sign a petition asking that the subject be placed on the 1964 primary ballot, met with 263 in favor and 387 against. There were 411 not voting.

Comments on the ballots included suggestions from those voting yes that the tax be limited to two mills and no higher; "splendid" or "very much in favor."

Comments by those against stated the tax setup was unfair and support should be given by subscription or donation, or taxes were already too high.

Before the unofficial poll, members of the civic organization had been told that to hold the survey within ten feet of the door of the polling place was unlawful and that they would be subject to arrest if violation occurred.

The survey was placed more than 15 feet from the door to the polls as was the semi-annual "Kaffeeklatch" also conducted by the club.

The names of those who answered the survey will be kept confidential, a spokesman for the club said last night, and will only be used if a petition is circulated. In that case those voting "yes" on the ballots will be asked to sign a petition.

All information, including the public opinion poll results will be presented to the board of supervisors at the Nov. 14 meeting in the Barrett Elementary Center at 8 p.m.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

There's one sure thing. This morning some people are elated and some deeply disappointed, but there's no telling which will be which by my extra-early deadline on election night.

However, I know some people who are happy, no matter whether the election turns out to their taste or not, because at the moment they have more important personal reasons for rejoicing.

Mr. and Mrs. George Biss, for instance, who don't need any sunshine around their apartment these days because of all the golden gifts they got for their golden wedding anniversary: everything from gold roses with money entwined to an ancient Mexican gold piece.

Their guests will long remember their anniversary dinner, too, including those Greek tea cakes. Mrs. Biss made herself for the party.

And Murph and Audrey Cohen are far too busy standing around admiring their new granddaughter, Stephanie Boltz, home for her first visit and as pink and white and cuddly as a new doll, but twice as wiggly and with a hundred times the personality.

Lura Evans is happy, too, about the large turnout for the AAUW meeting, including lots and lots of the more current crop of college graduates which enlivens any meeting. However, I doubt whether anybody was volunteering for the Peace Corps — just then anyway. Although there may be times when the thought of hearing jungle drums would outweigh the constant need of smelling like citronella or whatever goo they use for mosquitoes.

Area Events Of Interest To Girl Scouting

Scranton — The Scranton Pocono Girl Scout Council has scheduled its annual Delegate Assembly for Nov. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Girl Scout House, 450 Adams Ave., Scranton.

The official meeting of the Council, the membership includes delegates elected by each neighborhood council, each standing committee of the board with members of the board of directors and neighborhood chairmen.

They will elect officers and determine the general lines of direction for local Girl Scouting. There will be exhibits, national council reports and announcement of the 1965 Roundup Up Site.

In their newsletter, the council announced that two Monroe County Girl Scouts have been submitted by the council's selection committee to regional headquarters as candidates for 1964 national and international events: Harriet Horn, Troop 314, Tannersville; international gatherings abroad; and Brenda Bess, Troop 314, East Stroudsburg for All States Encampments.

Neighborhood meetings scheduled for the area include East Stroudsburg, Thursday, Nov. 7, 8 p.m., East Stroudsburg Methodist parsonage; Stroudsburg, Thursday, Nov. 14, 8 p.m., Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church; Mountain, Thursday, Nov. 14, 8 p.m., Paradise Community Center, Swiftwater.

Reds May Buy Dior's

Russian women, once taught to scorn high fashion as bourgeois nonsense and evidence of the capitalists' decaying society may be wearing Christian Dior designed styles soon.

Jacques Rouet, director of the French salon, has told Women's Wear Daily, a fashion trade publication, that he has been negotiating with the Soviet Union for the sale of original Dior models.

This style house, which once wrecked the economy of every American household with a fashion conscious wife by introducing the long-skirted "New Look," expects that the Russian manufacturers will reproduce their dresses by the millions. They are designed by Marc Bohan.

Accessories and other merchandise will be sold to the Iron Curtain country, Rouet said. The Christian Dior house with subsidiaries in London and New York, makes men's and women's shoes, hats, even cosmetics.

American garment district businessmen are skeptical of the deal, as yet unsigned, reports the publication. They can't really believe that the country is willing to part with its rubles at this stage of its economy for luxury items.

Friends And Neighbors Pay Tribute On 50 Anniversary

Stroudsburg — Mr. and Mrs. George Biss, who for the past 43 years have presided over the Boston Candy Kitchen, at 506 Main St., in Stroudsburg, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary this weekend.

They met and married in New York City in 1913, although both had come to this country from their native Greece in 1908. Mrs. Biss is the former Anna Theodora Tricules.

They have lived in an apartment over the store, catering to generations of children coming in after the matinee at the movies, to generations of parents buying papers on their way to church.

To celebrate the occasion they were hosts at a dinner at Greenview Guest Farm on Sunday afternoon with their neighbors and business and professional associates joining relatives from New York to pay them honor.

Guests at the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. Earl Groner, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Newman, Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Ehrig, Mr. and Mrs. James Sommers, Rev. and Mrs. Roger Stinson, Nicolas Rousopoulos and daughters, Anna and Georgia, Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Metzgar, Mr. and Mrs. A. Staples, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCluskey, Anthony Metropoulos, Miller Marsh, Edward Marsh, Ruth Keller, Mary Van Why, Irene Mutchler, Stanley Heller, Mrs. William Webb, Mrs. J. L. Hommeid, Leni Marsh and Bob Arnold, of the Stroudsburgs.

Out of town guest included Pete Dolas, a former competitor, and Mrs. Sophie Dolas and three of the grandchildren; Samuel and George Mellays, Connie Dukus and son, of Perth Amboy, N. J., Mrs. Lagas and family, of New York City, and Georgia Campas, of Perth Amboy, N. J.

After a reception at Indian Rocks, the couple left for a honeymoon in the Poconos. They will make their home at 22 Wilden Drive West, Wilden Acres, Easton.

East Stroudsburg — World Films will present two examples of "art films" Saturday, Nov. 9 at East Stroudsburg State College Auditorium at 8:15.

"Aparajito" is the second in a trilogy produced under India's famous director, Satyajit Ray. The three films provide a deep stream of understanding of Indian character, spanning four generations in the life of a family struggling with the elements and with poverty, struggling to keep their own identity in the midst of an imposed culture from the West.

"Aparajito," a boy who grew up in a remote Indian village turns to the city with its confusing influences for his schooling and inner maturing. The film is rich in amusing incidents arising from the British trained teachers and the sensitive but not too willing students.

In addition to the Indian film there will be a long "short" featuring Marcel Marceau in the Gogol story "The Overcoat." Marceau brings the classic Russian short story to life by pantomime, depicting a poor clerk who stints and scrapes to buy the coveted overcoat. Marceau's art, which wedds the techniques of the dance and drama, shows up at its best in color film.

Subscriptions to the series of films, with six still to come, will be available at the door, as well as single admissions at a nominal price. World Films is a co-operative non-profit project open to all interested persons. For further information telephone 421-2903.

Homemakers Need Community

Editor's Note — The recent report of the President's Commission on the Status of Women made sweeping recommendations for action in various fields of feminine endeavor. What this 22-month study means to the individual woman is explored in a four-part series on American women as homemakers, breadwinners, taxpayers and citizens. This first article deals with what the community can do to strengthen family life.

By Joy Miller

AP Women's Editor
Washington (AP) — Mary Camp is a young widow who works as a medical secretary to support her 2-year-old son. She pays out nearly half of her salary to the woman who cares for the child during the day.

Jean Smith's three youngsters are all in school now and she's like a part-time job to help out with family expenses. But Jean had never finished high school — along with 11 million other adult women. What kind of a job can she get?

Florence Wright doesn't need to work outside the home, but she is ailing a good bit of the time. Occasionally, running the household is just too much for her, and she fears the family might break up as a result.

These three women vary in age, economic status and perhaps outlook on life. Their problems are different but they have one thing in common: They're all homemakers — in a changing society.

They Live Longer

Assistant Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson, executive vice-chairman of the President's

Commission on the Status of Women says:

"We're concerned about the changes in our society—not fully realized—that have affected the lives of women. Women are still being judged by the old patterns, but . . .

"The life span is different. The life expectancy of a baby girl in 1900 was 48 years; today it is 73 years. Today's young woman has an additional quarter century of life to plan for."

Then there are these changes: earlier marriage and child-bearing, the move from rural to urban areas, automation in the kitchen.

Families Have Changed

The commission's recent report to the President makes this point: "Few 20th Century changes have been more striking than those in the composition of American households."

It used to be that two or more generations — grandmothers, mothers, maiden aunts, as well as young women with children — shared family tasks. Now, even though fathers are doing more domestic chores, in most families the mother is responsible for keeping the home going.

There are 44 million women keeping house today, and they "can do a far more effective job as mothers and homemakers," the report says, "when communities provide appropriate resources for health, education and counseling."

With all the Mary Camps in mind the commission urges communities to set up adequate child care services "for children at all economic levels . . . whether services are in homes or in centers. Costs should be

The commission puts major emphasis on child care services, which are needed by women whether or not they work outside the home. Present child care facilities are grossly inadequate, says the commission report, with licensed day care available only to some 185,000 children across the country. How many need it?

In nearly one-half million families with children under 6 years, the mother is the sole support. Who looks after her tots?

vised by fees scaled to parents' ability to pay, contributions from voluntary agencies and public appropriations."

It also supports increased federal tax deductions for child care expenses of working mothers.

For the Florence Wrights, the commission advocates the establishment of professionally supervised homemaker services.

Education For Life

And Jean Smith, with her limited educational background?

In its report the commission gives highest priority to continuing education for all adult women. Education must be recognized as a lifelong process, not just "something for the young," the report says.

It recommends that means of acquiring or continuing education be made available to every adult beginning at whatever point he or she broke off traditional formal schooling.

Vocational training should be included at all levels. And educational counseling is especially important for mothers who want to go to work.

It's up to the community, says the commission, to plan child care centers and after-school and vacation activities. "Failure to assure such services reflects primarily a lack of community awareness of the realities of modern life," insists the commission.

Many non-working mothers are ill, or living in overcrowded squalid conditions with no playgrounds for children, or have retarded or handicapped children.

Migrant families have no fixed homes. What do they do? Many resort to makeshift arrangements or leave their children without care.

N'fld Area Hotel Burns To Ground

GREENTOWN — Wallenpaupack Manor, one of the largest hotels in the Newfoundland area, burned to the ground shortly after noon yesterday.

The building, which also contained a restaurant and bar, was owned by Foster and Hazel Goeddel of Philadelphia. They had operated the business for about a year and a half.

Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined and there was no estimate of damages.

Three trucks from the Greene-Dreher Volunteer Fire Dept. and two from Taitton were on the scene. Firemen,

People In The Spotlight

Claude Bache, a farmer in Churchill, England, has learned the power of a Biblical expression. Irked by the persistent theft of his apples, Bache put up a sign on his orchard fence saying: "Keep Out, Trespassers will be prosecuted."

The thefts continued, so Bache took down the sign and put up one which said: "Thou Shalt Not Steal." That did it—the thefts stopped.

Angelo Bruno, wanted in Philadelphia for extortion, is now in Italy, the Federal Bureau of Investigation said this week. Bruno, described by the FBI as the "publicized head of Philadelphia Cosa Nostra," is currently living in a villa on the Adriatic Sea, the agency said.

Any attempt to return him to the United States would involve negotiations between the State Dept. and the Italian government since the offense on which he was indicted is not an extraditable one, the FBI said.

Hauling Debris Fee Established

WIND GAP — Contractors or individuals hauling more than two truckloads of debris to the garbage disposal dump from demolition sites will be charged a fee of $2 per load after the second load, by Borough of Wind Gap authorized this week.

The resolution was passed at Wind Gap council.

Ralph Wagner, secretary, reported that $1,338.44 was received from the state representing the remainder of ten per cent of the 1963 Liquid Fuels Tax. The money must be used for highway repair or construction.

A resolution authorizing the Highway Dept. to take over a segment of Chestnut St. and Lehigh Ave. for maintenance, repair and construction was adopted.

Receipts for the month totaled $5,082.82. Bills of $3,640.94 in the general fund and $438.46 in the state fund were ordered paid.

Council decided to repay the Citizens Bank of Wind Gap $1,500. The amount was the outstanding balance on a temporary loan.

Pen Argyl Sewer Shun Hearings Set

PEN ARGYL — All property owners who have not connected to the sewer system were directed to appear at hearings starting Nov. 16 by the Pen Argyl Borough Council.

Twenty more connections have been made bringing the total connections to 1,121, according to Woodrow Wilson, chairman of the sewer committee. Owners who do not connect to the system will be prosecuted, according to council.

Council decided to send a bill for $896 to the Bangor Gas Co. for work the street department did in the 600 block of William St. after the gas company installed new lines.

A contract for 12,000 gallons of fuel oil at 12.6 cents per gallon was awarded to the Tolino Fuel Co. in Flicksville.

The borough's one per cent earned income tax ordinance was re-enacted by council.

At this week's meeting Harry J. Bosold, civil defense director, announced a civil defense test will take place between 7 and 7:15 p.m., Nov. 12. Pedestrians will be requested to go indoors during the test and all traffic will come to a halt.

Voter For President Cleveland

93-Year-Old Still Votes For Demos

MINISINK HILLS — Samuel A. Strunk, 93, has voted straight Democratic since 1892, and yesterday was no exception.

Strunk, who voted in every general election since he was 21, cast a straight Democratic ballot yesterday in the election house in Middle Smithfield Township.

The first election he voted in was the 1892 presidential contest between Democrat Grover Cleveland and incumbent President Republican Benjamin Harrison.

"My favorite president was that grand man Franklin D. Roosevelt but this young man Kennedy is nearly his match. I am a great fan of Moses C. Strunk, a Democrat associate judge in Monroe County. His father died in 1918.

Silver Anniversary Awards

Magazine Honors Sports Successes

NEW YORK (AP)—Five men formerly prominent in sports—Marshall Goldberg, Brud Holland, Davey O'Brien, Bill Osmanski and Allie Reynolds—are among the 25 men named Tuesday to receive Sports Illustrated's Silver Anniversary All-America Award.

The award, open to anyone who played senior varsity football, is not given for outstanding gridiron achievement but instead for success in life in the 25 years after graduation. The current list was chosen from the class of 1938.

Nominations are made by the college or university and the winners are selected by a panel of distinguished citizens.

GUNNERY OFFICER

Goldberg was an outstanding football player at the University of Pittsburgh, gunnery officer in the Navy during World War II and later vice president and managing director of a machinery corporation in Chicago.

Dr. Jerome (Brud) Holland, football star at Cornell University, became president of Hampton Institute in Virginia and won renown as educator, administrator, author and leader of young men.

O'Brien gained fame as All-American quarterback at Texas Christian University and Heisman Trophy winner. He served as an FBI agent for 10 years and later became a successful oil executive in Texas.

GREAT BACK

Osmanski was one of Holy Cross' greatest backfield performers, later becoming a leading Chicago dentist and member of the lecture staff of North Western University.

Reynolds, from Oklahoma State University, became famous as a pitcher for the New York Yankees. He has been a successful oil executive in Oklahoma City for the last several years.

Other winners of the Silver Anniversary award by states with colleges which nominated them included:

Pennsylvania — Raymond T. Frey, Lebanon Valley; Frank Rabold, Lehigh.

Va. Gridder Plays From Ankle Down

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—

The most curious thing happened last Saturday to Frederick College's Wade Traynham, a 250-pounder who "plays football from the ankle down."

But, he added, "It's all over now and I think they'll come back. I don't feel this team is going to fold . . . there's simply too many big boys on this team . . . not big physically, perhaps, but awfully big in spirit."

"I'm not giving up on this team and neither are the boys themselves," he concluded.

Slippery Rock Eyeing Title

Lattimer Lineman Of Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Michigan State guard and linebacker Earl Lattimer, who literally flips over himself, was named Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press Tuesday for his role in the Spartans' upset of highly-ranked Wisconsin.

Lattimer frequently races out of the Michigan State huddle and turns a somersault before lining up at his position. He also frequently turns opposing rushers over without a gain, despite the fact this is his first full year as a lineman. He's a converted fullback.

Keyed Defense

Lattimer, a compact 218-pounder from Dallas, keyed the Spartan defense last Saturday that held Wisconsin to 29 yards rushing and contributed a 44-yard field goal on offense as a major factor in the Spartans' 30-13 victory over the Badgers.

Wisconsin was eighth-ranked in the country at the time. The triumph, which kept Michigan State tied for the Big Ten Conference lead, also boosted the Spartans into the No. 9 position in the weekly AP poll of the top college football teams.

Michigan State Coach Duffy Daugherty didn't pin any one-game honors on Lattimer for his key defensive work against Wisconsin, but spoke in terms of the entire season when he said:

"Our guards have been particularly effective with Lattimer leading them."

Some School Girls Feel Code Too Strict

Monroe Students Concerned About Dress

By Jim Shafer
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — The way a person dresses is usually a mirror which reflects the individual's personal habits, his attitude towards life, and perhaps his level in society.

This, too, is the general opinion of students in the high schools of Monroe County. They add that the way a person dresses in school is usually reflected on their report card.

Of the five high schools in Monroe County only one school is presently having trouble with the code of dress and this is only with the female population.

Joan Calhoun, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Calhoun of Little Mexico, and a junior in Pocono Mountain Joint High School, said, "There is a great deal of resentment to the code of dress by the girls in the high school."

"The overall feeling is that the school does not have the right to dictate such strict rules for dress," she added.

Joan was referring to the administration's policy on the length of the skirts. The ruling says all skirts should be worn one inch below the knee.

Kneeling Test

She alleged, "I have heard that several of the girls have been called into a woman teacher and ordered to kneel on her knees. If the skirt doesn't touch the floor the girl was told to have the skirt shortened."

"Many of the girls have a great deal of money invested in clothing, all of which is in style, and to have this done would add to the investment and in many cases be impossible due to the construction of the skirt or the height of the girl. "I know this to be a fact as I am five feet nine inches tall and it is just impossible to have my skirts lengthened to one inch below my knee."

Moderation Must

She continued, "However, I do favor a policy of a code of dress, but in cases like I have stated I feel that moderation is a must, on the part of the student and the administration."

"I am against the use of bleaches or eye makeup worn by girls in high school. This we have in Pocono Mountain Joint High School but the administration does not take a stand here, and I feel they should," Joan added.

Miss Calhoun said, "In one example in the school there is an eighth grader with dyed hair. I feel this is too young for a girl to use this type of makeup."

Jerry Hanna, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hanna of Blakeslee, and a senior at Pocono Mountain Joint High School, said, "The boys in school have little or no trouble with the code as required by the administration of the school. For the most part they dress appropriate. Most of the trouble with dress regulations at school is from the wear culottes (divided skirt)."

Pleasant Valley

Sharon Mills and James Weiss spoke for Pleasant Valley High School in Brodheadsville.

Sharon is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Mills of Brodheadsville and is a member of the Junior class. She hopes to enter business school upon graduation.

Face Suspension

"Pupils ignoring this regulation on good grooming and dress shall face suspension."

Amy and Tom agreed that they knew of no resentment on the part of the student body to the regulation of dress.

Amy said, "There is a code of dress in all walks of life. It may or may not be a written one, but it can be one of mutual understanding so why not have a code of dress in a school?"

She pointed out, "To the best of my knowledge the girls in this school realize the necessity of looking attractive and being in style. I also feel that being dressed in fashion and attractive aids in the atmosphere of good study."

Tom agreed saying, "I am of the firm belief that the grades of a student are reflected in many things he or she does while in school and being both of them are expected to report to school each day suitably dressed in clean, neat clothes. In no way are boys and girls asked to 'dress up' for regular school at-their report cards."

The code at Pleasant Valley is drawn up by the administration and from the interview of the two high school students, there is no resentment by the student body.

For the girls the administration does not allow the wearing of slacks, wigs, Bermuda shorts, extreme hairdos, no rollers in their hair while in school, and no blue jeans.

The boys are not allowed to wear blue jeans, T-shirts, shirts of any type outside the trousers, no cleats on their shoes, and no sweatshirts other than for athletic activities.

Black Leather Jackets Shunned

One item not included in the rules but observed by the student population is the wearing of black leather jackets.

Jim said, "I have never seen

Joan said, "When a pupil is suspended it is also entered on their school record. But there is no comment as to why the person was suspended. This is later seen when the student makes application at a college. This may be a deciding part in admission of the student."

Must Be Appropriate

The code, as published in the handbook, states, "The way boys and girls dress is frequently reflected in their conduct and general attitude toward school. Dress for our school need not be expensive, but it must be appropriate."

"Boys must wear standard trousers or khaki, shirts and clean polished shoes. There will be no wearing of dungarees, T-shirts or sweat shirts. No 'cowboy boots' or cleats on shoes are permitted."

East Stroudsburg High

The code of dress in East Stroudsburg Area Joint High School is set by the administration.

Speaking in behalf of the student body for this school were Amy Wunder, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William F. Wunder of East Stroudsburg, and Thomas Seese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Seese of East Stroudsburg.

The code of dress, as printed in the student handbook, states, "Pupils are required to wear the type of clothing deemed satisfactory by the faculty and administration."

"Boots, jeans, T-shirts, unbuttoned shirts, shirts with turned up collars, and girl's slacks are not considered in good taste. Sideburns, mustaches, goatees, and beards are considered inappropriate for junior and senior high school pupils."

Both agreed that suspending a student from school for not respecting the code is not entirely right.

Black Leather Jackets Shunned

One item not included in the rules but observed by the student population is the wearing of black leather jackets.

Jim said, "I have never seen any male student of this school in a leather jacket on the school grounds. I have seen several girls in leather jackets made from deer hides, but I don't classify these in the same category."

Sharon added, "Coming to school dressed well gives the school dignity. Girls of high school age are young women and women the world over want to be in style. Dressing in style and in moderation if need be satisfies the woman's ego."

In saying dressing in style in moderation she was referring to the length of present day skirts and dresses.

Slacks Out

Amy added, "Another thing that is not spelled out in the handbook is the wearing of rollers in the hair during the school day. This applies to the girls in the school. From what I have seen the girls must realize that this is not a proper way to look and dress and they do not come to school with their hair in rollers."

Tom said, "Another example of mutual agreement between the students and the administration is that of not wearing sweatshirts, except for periods of athletic classes."

Stroud Union

At Stroud Union High School the code of dress was established by the administration and not from the student body.

Speaking in behalf of the student body here were Patricia Ponder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Ponder of Stroudsburg RD 3, and Bruce Reish, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reish of Stroudsburg RD 3.

Both are members of the senior class and serve on the student council in the school.
